Streaming multiple high-definition feeds simultaneously hasn't caused any slowdown or buffering, which is exactly what I needed for my security setup. It feels very reliable and consistent, and I haven't noticed any interruptions in. If you're setting up a small IP camera or Wi-Fi access point cluster and need simple PoE that won't break the bank, the TP-Link TL-SF1005P is worth a quick look. 3at/af ports, a dedicated uplink, and a 67 W budget in a fanless metal case, so it's quiet and reliable in tight.
