

TV Terminal Box

Overview

A TV terminal box (also known as a set-top box or STB) is a device that decodes broadcast signals—whether from cable, satellite, or the internet—into video and audio formats that your television can display. The TV terminal box is an essential device for enhancing your home entertainment experience by connecting your TV to various streaming services, apps, and external devices. These devices have evolved from simple signal converters to advanced multimedia hubs that. A set-top box (STB), also known as a cable box, receiver, or simply box, and historically television decoder or a converter, is an information appliance device that generally contains a TV tuner input and displays output to a television set, turning the source signal into content in a form that.
